ABOUT THIS WINERY

The Brezza private estate lies next to the small town of Barolo, immersed in the vineyards, as is the nearby Hotel Barolo and Restaurant Brezza, also property of the Brezza family.

The estate extends over twenty-two hectares, of which sixteen and a half are vineyards, some dating back to 1885. The wines are all certified as DOCG "Denominazione di Origine Controllata e Garantita" or DOC "Denominazione di Origine Controllata"

TASTING NOTES

The palate shows a slight bitter aftertaste (bitter almond), typical of Dolcetto from these areas. The color is a very lively purple. Dolcetto is the wine for the "everyday table" that has best been able to take root in the heart of Piedmont. It has a great flexibility with the complex cuisine of our region, from appetizer to desserts. It can keep well for several years although we recommend it be drunk at a younger age.

PRODUCT NOTES

The soil of this vineyard in Barolo is soft and sandy. The wines originate they have always a very elegant perfume, fruit and good complexity. Even in wet years in this vineyard it always manages to have good quality grapes, due to the high percentage of sand and good drainage in the soil
